In August 1967, Fairbanks experienced the greatest flood in its history.

It began raining on August 8th and did not stop raining until August 15th. Total rainfall at the Fairbanks Airport was 6.15 inches. Around 95% of Fairbanks flooded; some places up to five feet of water. About half the rain fell on Saturday, August 12th, but the crest at Fairbanks occurred on Tuesday, August 15th. The crest stage, 18.82 feet, at the USGS stream-gaging station on the Chena River at Fairbanks was 2.7 feet higher than the previous maximum recorded stage which occurred May 21, 1948. This flood prompted Congress to pass a National Flood Insurance Program and created the Chena River Flood Control.
