Washburn Churches Aid Tornado Disaster Victims

Not just hand-wringing, but positive community action is being taken by the three Washburn churches, to assist the victims of the tornado disasters at Oelwein, Charles City, and Maynard.
Last Sunday each of the churches took up cash offerings from their members, to be distributed through church channels. In addition, with the assistance of Scout Troop 117 of the Wapsipicon council, mimeographed notices have been distributed to all homes in Washburn, advising of the need for food, clothing, and bedding. In accordance with advice obtained from the Waterloo Civil Defense Office, names only of volunteers are now being secured - to be kept on file until the Civil Defense Authorities call upon this area for certain goods to be delivered. At that time, the Lutheran Church will be used as the local gathering center for volunteered goods, and trucks will then deliver the needed items as directed by the Civil Defense Authorities.

This is the first cooperative venture of this kind undertaken by these community churches. The three pastors, Rev. Sargeant Lusthoff of Calvary Bible Church, Rev. Arthur Hughes of St. Paul's Presbyterian, and Rev. O. Henry Hoversten of Redeemer Lutheran Church, are encouraged by the community response, and look forward to a greater degree of cooperation on a community level. Mr. Carl Deeds of Redeemer Lutheran Church has been appointed Coordinator of the entire project. Please call 982-1035 if anyone has items to contribute.

Medical Clerical Course Offered

The Hawkeye Institute of Technology is now accepting applications for a three-quarter medical clerical program. The State Department of Public Instruction recently gave approval for the program.

The course begins Sept. 30 at Hawkeye's Fall Quarter. The curriculum includes intermediate typewriting, medical clerical bookkeeping, medical records management, office machines, medical machine transcription, medical insurance, medical office procedures, business mathematics, medical correspondence, human relations and charm, business English, and medical seminar.

Students are to receive on-the-job training through a cooperative part-time program.

Millard K. Mills, general manager of Professional Management Midwest of Waterloo, one of the advisory committee members for the program, says "We feel that one of the greatest needs in the field of medicine, along with nurses and physicians, is for the well-trained versatile girl working in the medical office."

"Twenty-five years ago a girl who worked in a physician's office primarily had to answer the telephone. Now it's much more complicated and the variety of duties call for a much more skilled person. It also makes a job which is interesting and challenging. We seldom see a girl who works in an office in the field of medicine leave for industry because they do enjoy their work."

Mills said that students familiar with physician's medical reports could act as receptionists, appointment clerks, medical record clerks, medical insurance clerks and typists.

About 20 students are expected to make up the first class next fall. The course will be taught at the Airline and Highway 57 location of the Institute. Applicants for the program should show evidence of interest, and aptitude and ability to profit from such training and have a demonstrated typing speed of approximately 40 w.p.m. with accuracy.

Tuition at Hawkeye is $60 per quarter. If interested in enrolling or for more information about the course, write the Admission Office, Hawkeye Institute of Technology, 2800 Falls Ave., Waterloo, Iowa or call 234-7528.

E.R.S. Club Assists Storm Area

The Emergency Radio Service Club of La Porte City has been very active and busy the past two weeks. Along with their own club activities they have been called upon by the storm torn areas for help. They assisted Oelwein and Charles City with communications to help with traffic and keep down looting after the recent tornadoes. A fine job was done by the members working with the other clubs and police forces of these towns.

The regular meeting of the E.R.S. Club was held Sunday, May 16 at Minni Esta Ma Park near Brandon. Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Decker of Cedar Falls were voted in as new members of the Club.

Members of the E.R.S. Club camped out at MacFarland Park this last weekend. Saturday morning they were served rolls and coffee.
