

Lara Keys - Meteorologist, narrative while answering the phone with storms approaching “National Weather Service, this is Lara, yes we currently have a line of thunderstorms moving in”

NOAA Weather Radio alarm and broadcast
“Wind gusts up to 60 mph can be expected with this line of thunderstorms”

Matt Grantham - Meteorologist narration
“I'm a spotter and I see a downburst just west of town. Looks like very strong winds and large hail.”

John Metz - Warning Coordination Meteorologist, interview at Texas A&M Corpus Christi Campus
“Outdoor events are common across the nation. Sometimes these events are interrupted by the weather, placing hundreds if not thousands of people's lives in jeopardy. Knowing what to do, when hazardous weather approaches, could mean the difference between life and death.”

John Metz interview outside “Fact is, there is no safe place outdoors

when a thunderstorm is nearby. The vast majority of storm victims were going to a safe place but waited too long before seeking safe shelter. “

John Metz narrative and closing remarks

“When hosting an outdoor event; having a plan in place and knowing when to implement it, is vital to everyone's safety.”
